

L.A GORILLA

By Jude Braddy (Year 5)

The thick, dense jungle wrapped around him on all sides. As the quiet chirping of an innocent bird softened the sharp hissing of a villainous snake. As John wandered around the magnificent amazon rainforest. As he ventured on into the animal wonderland he noticed a thump like a tiny aftershock rock the ground. He loved the jungle as he was the only one that volunteered to be the next great explorer. He came to a halt as a tremendous wall of vines stretched to the top of the canopy. As he brushed away the dew covered foliage he came to an opening in the middle was a giant rock the opening circled it like a mob of fans circling a superstar. The rock gleamed as the sunlight reflected off the highest point of it. John had never seen anything like it.

"Where on earth did such a beautiful rock come from" he exclaimed aloud. Then in an instant he screamed, "YAAH!" Birds screeched as they flew away in utter fright... "It was moving I saw it" yelled John, he was as frightened as the poor birds. It was definitely not a rock it was a gorilla! He felt like a pebble next to a boulder it towered him. It hugged him so he hugged back. Little did John know that that moment changed his life and set him a great journey to save the city. Then he decided he needed a real name so he named him Jeff and like that the two were set for life.

2 WEEKS LATER

John was back in L.A with his soulmate Jeff. The two were having the time of their life. He would not leave Jeff out of anything. He was Jeff as much as Jeff was himself. What he didn't know is that the government was testing a highly unstable weapon. This devious plot went by the name project L.M it was top secret. The problem was they needed a test subject but who?

JEFF... JEFF! Jeff was nowhere to be seen he'd put up posters and called the fire department. NOOO! It was devastating he had never felt such horrid dread ever before. Then by what some would call luck an add flashed on the TV,

"ROLL UP ROLL UP! See the amazing Jonathan Thicc one time only!" Then he rushed out of his door and ran to the corner of town. He saw an eerie tent he walked in and saw a massive bird "I'm Jonathan Thicc" boomed the bird. "Please I'm begging you show me where Jeff is". "He is in government containment being where he is being sprayed with yellow gas". He dashed through Town across roads where he came to a building. It towered him like a dragon confronting a knight...

It was locked he had come all this way for nothing. He sighed there was no hope then the door swung open. Inside it was like walking into a futuristic movie light shined everywhere he blinked to the sudden light. Then as he trained his eyes on the stairs he saw him. It was Jeff he was so relieved to see his best buddy. Within a second Jeff ran snarling in rage John was knocked aside as he saw Jeff starting to terrorize the streets.

SMASH! BANG BANG! Shrieks of terror filled the air as sirens wailed all around him. It was Jeff why would he turn on him he watched in horror as Jeff smashed windows and raided shops. He could not believe that gorilla that hugged him in that rainforest was causing all this damage. It just shocked him to no end his best mate did this. Just as he looked up he saw Jeff grab a soldier's leg in shock he tried to grab the soldier even though he was way too far away. "No shouted John as he watched in terror Jeff was climbing a sky scraper when he got to the top Jeff dangled the soldier of the edge. Then he dropped the world slowed down the last week flashed before his eyes. As the world sped up he saw the soldier in a rescue net and he saw massive planes fly over bombers! Stop no they were going to bomb Jeff he ran to a soldier and said "don't drop your bombs". The bomb doors opened it was too late. Wait he couldn't see Jeff all he saw was Jeff on the floor his body sprawled. Crash the building was going down he spied out of the corner of his eye a truck he dashed to it he drove it to Jeff used the hydraulic lift and got out of there. He looked back to see the first bomb detonate the building crumbled as they drove away into the country

1 MONTH LATER

Life was pretty much back to normal the city was still recovering and Jeff was treated and every one there received medical attention. But most of all John walked away with Jeff he was even more of a friend than ever before nothing could separate them now they were an unbreakable duo of such glory they would forever live on together. Ding he got a message it read: Hello John we would inform you that the operations you have taken part in was part of the plot to mind control your best friend Jeff we sincerely apologise for the pain we put you through yours Ronald Reagan.